The summer holidays are approaching and you and your family just can't decide where to go. The kids want lots of sport and activity, while you would prefer a chance to relax in natural surroundings and experience a bit of culture as well. Why not try Swansea, the holiday destination with something for everyone?

To start with, the beaches around Swansea are a playtime paradise, with clean sand and sparkling water. There is no end to the things you can do. The little ones can build sandcastles and paddle on the shore, while older children can take part in activities such as windsurfing and sailing. Grown-ups will enjoy lazing on the beach while admiring the beautiful scenery.

For those who don't fancy sunbathing or watersports, the surrounding countryside has lots to offer. Picturesque coastal paths and nature trails are ideal for long walks. Moreover, medieval castles, ancient burial sites and spectacular parks and gardens can all be easily reached.

If you want to have a fabulous time in town, try the Maritime Quarter. Once the industrial and shipping area of the city, it now has quaint 19th century streets alongside newer areas of homes, businesses, pubs, restaurants and museums. Don't miss the Maritime and Industrial Museum, which is full of fascinating relics from the Quarter's working past.

We can guarantee that your holiday in Swansea won't be spoilt by rainy weather. The Swansea Leisure Centre, a huge indoor complex, truly has something for everyone with its swimming pool, fitness classes, high-tech gym and of course a cafeteria for snacks and drinks. There's an assortment of special activities for the kids, including wild and wacky exercises in Fit kid, and the Fun Club, with team games, arts and crafts and swimming sessions especially for children.

The culturally-minded will find plenty to suit their tastes in Swansea. The Swansea Grand theatre has offerings ranging from comedy to opera. There is also an outdoor theatre at Oystermouth Castle, where opera and the plays of Shakespeare are performed. For those interested in the visual arts, Swansea's municipal art gallery houses a variety of works by famous artists such as Dore, Gwen and Augustus John and Graham Sutherland.

Finally, for a taste of the exotic, don't miss Plantasia. This is an indoor tropical paradise, packed with beautiful plant life from the warmest regions of the world. It's not just greenery either. Frogs, snakes, spiders and birds can be seen in their natural surroundings, and the butterfly house, with its colourful creatures from the world's rainforests, is not to be missed. ## Walking Holidays

It had been a long, hard, wonderful day. The two of us had walked from the sea's edge through the length of a beautiful valley, climbed a superb mountain, traversed its narrow, rocky ridge, and now stood on its final peak, tired, happy and looking for the perfect camp site.

The experienced backpacker has a natural feeling for such things, and our eyes were drawn to a small blue circle on the map, like an eye winking at us. We could not see it from where we were, but we followed our judgement and descended steeply until it came into view.

We were right. It was a calm pool, with flat grass beside it. Gently taking our packs off, we made the first of many cups of tea before putting up our tent. Later that evening, over another cup of tea and after a good meal, we sat outside the tent watching the sunset over a glittering sea dotted with islands, towards one of which a ferry was slowly moving. It is not always so perfect, of course. On another trip, with a different companion, a thoroughly wet day had ended at a lonely farm. Depressed at the thought of camping, we had knocked and asked if we could use a barn as a shelter. Backpacking could be defined as the art of comfortable, self-sufficient travel on foot. Everything you need is in the pack on your back, and you become emotionally as well as physically attached to it.

The speed at which the backpacker travels makes this the perfect way to see any country. You experience the landscape as a slow unfolding scene, almost in the way it was made; and you find time to stop and talk to people you meets. I've learned much local history from simply chatting to people met while walking through an area. At the end of a trip, whether three days or three weeks, there's a good feeling of achievement, of having got somewhere under your own power.

In Britain, there are no areas completely untouched by humans, though we do have fine wild country. In the north-west of Scotland, I have managed to walk for three days without crossing a road or passing an inhabited house. In the lowlands, your overnight stops may have to be on recognised camp sites. In upland country, you have the priceless gift of choosing where to camp.

There is one important rule the good backpacker should follow: respect the land and its people — as the Americans say, "take only photographs (one might add memories), and leave only footprints".

With good equipment, you can survive just about anything the weather can throw at you - and modern equipment is very good indeed. Of course, you need to know how to use it - go to a specialist shop for good advice. In particular, you need to be confident in map reading.

- 1. The main aim of the backpackers was to climb over the mountain.
- 2. The travellers did not know beforehand where they would have their damp site.
- 3. The backpackers first made a fire and then put up their tent.
- 4. From their camp site the travellers could see the sea.
- 5. In the author's opinion a backpacker's life largely depends on the pack he/she carries on his/her back.
- 6. The author thinks that backpacking is the best way to know the country you travel around.
- 7. Everywhere in Britain backpackers have to make their overnight stops on recognized camp sites.
- 8. The author supports the idea that backpackers should not harm the countryside.
- 9. An experienced backpacker can survive in any weather with or without any equipment.
- 10. The ability to read the map is the most important skill the backpacker should have.

Pros and Cons of Foreign Tourism

This question can be looked at from several points of view. Firstly, foreign tourism should be considered, in relation to a country's economy. Secondly, it can be seen in terms of its effect on the countryside and environment. Thirdly, the influence of the tourist industry on culture must be taken into account.

The economy of a country often benefits as a result of tourism; foreign visitors come and spend their money, and this creates jobs for those who run hotels and restaurants. However, there are also certain drawbacks. Whereas the people directly involved in the industry may benefit, others may find that they are worse off. This is because the cost of living goes up and goods become more expensive since tourists are prepared to pay more for them.

As far as the effect on the environment is concerned, tourism is often a bad thing. While it is true to say that development results in better roads being built and improvements for poorer areas, it is sometimes also very harmful. In some countries, huge hotels and skyscrapers have ruined areas of unspoilt beauty.

The cultural influence of tourism is difficult to measure. In some countries foreign influence can destroy the local way of life. On the other hand, countries which do not encourage tourism may miss the benefits that foreign technology and investment can bring.

In conclusion, it can be seen that tourism has both advantages and disadvantages; if it is controlled properly, it can be good for a country, but there will always be a danger that it may do a great deal of harm.

- 1. The economy of any country always benefits from tourism.
- 2. In tourist seasons local people have to pay more for goods and services.
- 3. The impact of tourism on environment is a two-sided matter.
- 4. Tourism negatively influences the infra-structure of the country.

- 5. Tourism always has a positive effect on the country's nature.
- 6. The culture foreign tourists bring may have bad influence on the local customs and traditions.
- 7. Foreign technology and investments that come with foreign tourism can improve the country's economy.
- 8. Tourism may have positive effect on a country if it is controlled properly.
- 9. According to the text tourism has more advantages than disadvantages.
- 10. Tourism provides jobs for local population.

1. Read the text. Then, mark the following statements as true (T) or false (F).

Planning a Holiday

More and more people take a holidays abroad every year, and a recent survey has shown that they would rather cut back spending on food and clothing during the year than spend less on holiday. Choosing the ideal holiday is not always easy, but in this day and age there is a wide range of choice, and you should be able to find something to suit your taste and pocket.

Some people like planning their holiday independently, while others prefer to book a package. It depends on where you're going, how much money you have, and whether you're travelling alone, or with friends or family.

The obvious advantage of a package holiday is that it's simple to organize. You book the holiday through a travel agent, and transport, insurance and accommodation are all arranged for you. All you have to do is pay the bill. If you take an independent holiday, on the other hand, you can spend a lot of time and a small fortune checking complicated timetables, chasing cheap flights, and trying to make hotel bookings in a language you can't even speak. What is more, package holidays are often incredibly cheap. For the price of a suit, you can have a fortnight in a foreign resort, including accommodation, meals, and air travel. A similar independent holiday, however, can work out much more expensive.

Yet the advantages of planning your holiday yourself are considerable. You are free to choose exactly where and when you want to go, how you want to travel, and how long you want to stay. You can avoid the large resorts, whereas holiday-makers on package tours are often trapped among crowds of other tourists. You can eat the food of the region at reasonable prices in local restaurants, while they are served with "international" dishes and chips with everything. Besides, although package holidays are usually extremely good value for money, they are not always cheaper. If you are willing to take a little trouble, you may be able to save money by fixing up a foreign holiday yourself.

- 1. Most holiday makers choose not to economize on their holidays.
- 2. Everybody knows which holiday is ideal for him/her.
- 3. It is possible to find a holiday to suit your taste and pocket because of the variety of offers.
- 4. Package tours give holiday-makers less freedom of choice.
- 5. Independent holidays are always cheaper than package tours.
- 6. Both independent and package holidays are simple to organize.
- 7. When you choose a package holiday you shouldn't worry about means of transport and place where you will live.
- 8. Package holidays can let you spend two weeks at the resort for the price of a suit.
- 9. While planning an independent holidays you can choose the length of your trip.
- 10. People who are planning an independent holiday like troubles.

1. Read the text. Then, mark the following statements as true (T) or false (F).

TRAVELLING

Travelling is necessary to us all. It keeps us from growing stale and old by giving us that movement and change, which are necessary to our life.

Many people plan to go on a two-day trip for the weekend. If young people are away from home they may go home to stay with some relatives or friends. Some people prefer to go to the seaside by car, as it is very comfortable and rather cheap. Some people like to travel by plane, by train or by ship.

Today, travel agents offer all kinds of holidays to all types of people, as nearly everybody can afford some sort of holiday. Travel agents' windows are full of ads (advertisements), especially during the summer months. Active pursuits are water sports, rock climbing, and excursions by bike, horse riding or simply walking to faraway places. Travel agents think that their customers consist of certain types of people. For each type, they try to offer the "right" price in the "right" country. All this must be planned very carefully. So, while most people are still busy buying Christmas presents, the travel agents have already decided where their customers will be going next summer, what kind of things they will be doing there and how much money they will be spending on their holidays.

A package holiday is a holiday, which is arranged by a company at a fixed price, which includes travel, hotels, and meals. It is very popular. In many countries if you go to a travel agent you can buy a "last minute" package or package holidays that someone has cancelled for up to 50% less than the original cost.

In spite of the many advantages which travel agents can offer, there are still quite a few people who "go it alone", choosing their own destination and booking their tickets and accommodation themselves.

Travel agencies started long ago. Thomas Cook was one of the first travel agents. He started to organize excursions by train in the middle of the last century. Later on, he also organized excursions from England to the European continent. The first tour in the modern sense was put together by Thomas Cook in England, in 1841, and the firm of Thomas Cook and Sons has remained one of the famous names in the tourist industry.

Sometimes the agents are right (people will be doing exactly what the travel agents have planned for them) but sometimes they are wrong. All this makes their business rather risky, because if they make mistakes, they can lose a lot of money.

1. Read the text. Then, mark the following statements as true (T) or false (F).

Pattaya lies 150 km to the south-east of Bangkok, less than two hours by road, and stretches for some 15 km along the Eastern Seaboard. Thailand's largest resort divides the coast into traditional fishing villages, other resorts such as Bang Saen and Rayong, new industrial centers, the towns of Chonburi and Sriracha, and the port and naval base of Satthip. Pattaya beach is a sandy bay with a view of coral islands on the horizon. The region is full of agricultural products including sugar cane, rubber, and fruit trees.

Pattaya in the 1960s was just a little fishing village, until a few Bangkok residents began to spend their weekends here and made a local tourist industry. The only hotel of any size was the Nipa Lodge: other accommodations tended towards holiday bungalows and beach huts. The Vietnam War saw the start of Pattaya's international reputation because the resort was used as an official leisure centre. The U- Tapao Airport, which was built for American use at the time, and shops, services, bars and hotel accommodations were improved.

Pattaya is now a city in its own right and with its own administration. The government development program for the Eastern Seaboard has transformed the region. Five international schools, four hospitals were built in the area.

Pattaya affords a great variety of accommodations to suit every pocket. Facilities vary from luxury hotels with private beaches to bayside hotels and bungalows, and economy class hotels and guest houses.

As a beach resort with city status, Pattaya has something for everyone. There is just about everything you can think of for leisure. There is everything for children, for the sports enthusiasts and for those who are simply looking for warm sunshine.

Visitors can windsurf, water ski, sea walk, and swim, sunbathe, sail, or go on trips to coral islands. They can rent water scooters to explore.

Visitors can hire also bicycles from beach-side vendors. If you prefer to drive a reputable car, Pattaya has a lot of car rental companies. Avis is based at the Dusit Resort, in North Pattaya. Budget Car and Truck Rental, and VIA Rent-a-car are two other main names. In addition to international standards of service, these companies will also offer visitors tour ideas, maps and other things. ## TRANSPORTATION

Transportation is an important aspect in the total tourist industry because it is an essential feature of tourism. During the 19th century railroads spread across Europe, North America and many other parts of the world.

In the second half of the 20th century the automobile has replaced the railroad for most local travel. It offers convenience.

The traveller can depart from his own home and arrive at his destination without transferring luggage or coping with any of the other difficulties. The apparent costs of a trip by automobile are also lower, especially for family groups.

A very large percentage of domestic tourism now takes advantage of the automobile for transportation. In Europe, where the distance from one national board to another may be very short, automobiles are also used extensively for international journeys.

For long-distance travel, the airplane has replaced the railroad and the ship as the principal carrier. The railroads have suffered on short-distance routes as well as on long-distance routes. Motor buses or coaches as they are called in England have replaced railroad passenger service on many local routes.

Ships still play an important part in tourism for the purpose of cruising. A cruise is a voyage by ship that is made for pleasure rather than to arrive quickly at a fixed destination. The cruise ship acts as the hotel for the passengers as well as their means of transportation. When the tourists reach a port, they are usually conducted on one-day excursions, but they are to return to the ship to eat and to sleep.

The airlines are now very prominent in the tourist industry and it is important to remember that there are two kinds of airline operations, scheduled and nonscheduled.

A scheduled airline operates on fixed routes at fixed times according to a timetable that is available to the public.

A nonscheduled airline operates on routes and at times when there is a demand for the service. The non-scheduled airline is, in other words, a charter operation that rents its aircraft. The scheduled airlines aim their services primarily at business travellers, at people visiting friends and relatives, and at others who travel alone or in small groups.

As seating capacity increased with the introduction of newer, larger and faster planes, the airlines were able to offer a percentage of their seats for sale through travel agents or tour operators.

IT stands for inclusive tour, a travel package that offers both transportation and accommodations, and often entertainment as well.

Another important abbreviation in tourism is CIT, charter inclusive tour is one that uses a charter plane for transportation. Charter plane is an aircraft that has been rented to fly when and where the service is necessary. Charter inclusive tours are sold at even lower fares than the inclusive tours on the scheduled airlines.

Reading Comprehension

1. Read the text. Then, mark the following statements as true (T) or false (F).

FOOD SERVICE

Food services are a feature of hotels. The typical modern "package hotel" includes a restaurant, a cafe shop for quicker and less expensive meals, and a bar or cocktail lounge. Many larger hotels have several restaurants, often featuring different kinds of foods, as well as different prices. Hotels provide room service — food and drink that are brought to the guest's room. In addition, catering service is usually provided in the hotel's recreational areas. The poolside bar and snack bar for quick food are normal part of the service at a resort hotel.

Food, in fact, may be one of the reasons why people travel. Many people go out of their way to visit France; for example, because of the gourmet meals those are served there. Similarly, the excellent restaurants of Hong Kong constitute one of its principal tourist attractions.

The range of food service in hotels and restaurants today is extensive. In the first category, there are restaurants offering the highest grade of service with a full a la carte menu. These include dishes served by the waiter from a trolley in the dinning-room, and are known as guerdon service. The guerdon waiter has to cook dishes at the table.

A second type of service is silver where the menu can be either a la carte or table d'hote. In this system, the food is prepared in the kitchen and then put on to silver plates and presented to the guests in the dinning-room.

A third form of table service is plate service. The waiter receives the meal already plated from the service hotplate and only has to plate it in front of the guest. Plate service is offered where speedy service is necessary.

In a fourth type of service, called self-service, a customer collects a tray from the service counter, chooses his dishes and selects the appropriate cutlery for the meal.

Today, with increasing needs for economy, many establishments usually prefer a variety of types of service. Tourist hotels, for example, frequently offer a combination of self-service and plate service for breakfast and another combination of self-service and silver service for luncheon.
